

Eden Anthony

Artist Bio

Eden Anthony graduated with a Bachelor of Fine Arts degree in graphic design and ceramics from Rhode Island College in December of 2021. Towards the end of her completing her concentration in graphic design, she discovered her love of working three-dimensionally. Eden was also rewarded with a three-person student show in the Rhode Island College art department's Chazen Family Gallery. Eden now attends Hood College and is working towards her Master of Fine Arts degree. Edens work is texturally inspired by ocean life, as the beach has always been a place of peace and reflection for her. Her sculptures encapsulate the visual elements found in coral reefs, barnacles, sea anemones, and other life found in the ocean's depths. The serene coil-building process, resulting in dynamic silhouettes, takes a drastic turn as the chaos and unpredictability of the raku firing process take over. The sculptures are introduced to rapid temperature changes, fire and thick smoke. This technique, echos life's unpredictability, alters each piece, and embodies the inevitable fluctuations of life's currents. Her current work stands as a tangible reflection of transformative beauty.
