TO BE COMPLETED BY THE STUDENT'S HEALTH CARE PROFESSIONAL

A disability is defined under the Americans with Disabilities Act as "a physical or mental impairment that substantially limits one or more major life activities." Examples of major life activities are: seeing, hearing, eating, sleeping, walking, standing, lifting, bending, speaking, breathing, thinking, concentrating, learning, reading, communicating, working, performing manual tasks, caring for oneself, and the operation of major bodily functions. A temporary impairment may include an injury, severe illness, recovery from surgery, or a condition caused by a traumatic event.

TO BE COMPLETED BY THE STUDENT'S HEALTH CARE PROFESSIONAL

Your patient/client has requested academic accommodations through the Office of Accessibility Services at Hood College. In order to provide reasonable accommodations, we require documentation of the specific functional limitations that result from the individual's disability. General statements about the disability do not help determine appropriate accommodations. Understanding the functional limitations of the disability allows us to understand the degree to which the disability substantially interferes with the academic environment for our student.

We require clear documentation of limitations in function or performance specifically as it relates to the academic setting. Substantiated need is constituted by a severe or chronic disabling condition that has been well-documented by an appropriate, qualified professional.

A disability is defined under the Americans with Disabilities Act as "a physical or mental impairment that substantially limits one or more major life activities." Examples of major life activities are: seeing, hearing, eating, sleeping, walking, standing, lifting, bending, speaking, breathing, thinking, concentrating, learning, reading, communicating, working, performing manual tasks, caring for oneself, and the operation of major bodily functions. A temporary impairment may include an injury, severe illness, recovery from surgery, or a condition caused by a traumatic event.

The healthcare professional completing this form must be actively treating the student for the disability that can impact the student's academic experience. The form may not be completed by a family member, friend or office manager or staff. Hood College Health Services can complete this form when the request is temporary (e.g. needed for under 30 days.)

Is this considered a temporary disability? (e.g. short duration of time such as less than 6 months, ne	eding recovery from surgery, etc.)

	No, this is not considered a temporary disability.
 	Temporary; If temporary, the anticipated duration of the condition is: Less than 30 days
•	One semester
•	One academic year (two semesters)

Note: Under ADA, chronic conditions can qualify as disabilities even when they are not active. A condition that causes periodic flare-ups (such as Crohn's disease) will qualify as a disability if it meets the definition in its active state. Similarly, a person whose cancer is in remission will qualify as having a disability if that condition, when active, would meet the definition.
