4am: The Witching Hour is an escape from the modern world, into nature where flora and fauna have a delicate, healing beauty and we can all breathe again.

Frederick, MD—Hood College is pleased to present Julie Ellis, and her series of artwork titled, 4am: The Witching Hour, in the Hodson Gallery located in the Tatem Arts Center from May 6 to 13, 2022. The exhibition opens on Friday, May 6, from 5-7 PM, with artist talks at 6pm. The Hodson Gallery is open daily from 9:00 am to 7:00 pm.

Julie Ellis is a printmaker and fiber artist whose work is inspired by classic illustrations of fairytales, Celtic folklore, and the beauty and healing power of nature. 4am: The Witching Hour provides an other-worldly escape with its use of pastel and stormy colored inks with golden highlights which create the feeling of an enchanted, moonlit garden.

Julie Ellis is an artist living in Frederick, Maryland. She is majoring in Art & Archaeology, with a Studio Art concentration focused on printmaking; she will earn her Bachelor of Arts degree from Hood College in the spring of 2022.
